Dear Rajhans Family,

The past two months have been a whirlwind of energy, creativity, and shared moments that remind us why Rajhans Vidyalaya is so much more than just a school—it's a home where every student, teacher, and staff member adds their own unique color to our ever-evolving tapestry.

This edition of Euphoria, "Cultural Kaleidoscope: A Celebration of Rajhans' Tapestry," beautifully captures the vibrancy of our school life. Just like a kaleidoscope, where different patterns come together to create something extraordinary, our school thrives on the rich diversity of talents, traditions, and perspectives that each student brings. Through dance, music, art, literature, and sports, we have celebrated the essence of who we are—a dynamic and inclusive community that values creativity and expression.

Our Annual Concert – Navras – was a celebration straight from the heart, where our students truly shone on stage, bringing passion, emotion, and storytelling to life. Their dedication to each performance reflected their spirit, leaving us in awe of their talent and enthusiasm. It was a magical experience that filled us all with pride. The dedication they put into every performance reflected their spirit, and I couldn't be prouder.

Message from the Principal

The vibrancy continued across the campus, with a series of events that fostered a sense of community and belonging. From the energetic Dandiya night, where we danced and celebrated together, to the Anand Mela Fun Fair, filled with colorful stalls offering delicious food, games, and crafts, every moment was packed with joy. Our Diwali party for students lit up with warmth and festivity, while the Christmas party brought a special sense of togetherness, with music, dance, and holiday cheer. Alongside this, our campus has been alive with vibrant literary, artistic, and sporting events, each one bringing us closer as a community and reinforcing the values of teamwork, resilience, and cultural diversity.

Amidst all this excitement, I want to take a moment to acknowledge our Grade 10 and 12 students who are preparing for their board exams. This is an important milestone, and I encourage you to stay focused, trust in your preparation, and approach each day with confidence. Your teachers, family, and friends are here to support you every step of the way. Take it one day at a time, believe in yourself, and remember that steady progress leads to great success. To all our students, whether you are preparing for exams, exploring new passions, or simply finding joy in the everyday moments of school life—keep going, keep growing. Every experience, big or small, adds to the beautiful tapestry that is Rajhans Vidyalaya.

Let's continue to celebrate our journey together, embracing learning, creativity, and the warmth of our Rajhans family.

Happy reading!

Mrs. Rita Dubey
Principal

Dear readers,

The theme "Cultural Kaleidoscope" celebrates the rich diversity within our school and the wider community, highlighting the unique traditions, practices, and perspectives that each culture brings. Like a kaleidoscope which creates endless patterns of color and light, our collective cultural identities form a vibrant and ever-changing mosaic. Every culture contributes distinct customs, values, and experiences that enhance the fabric of our society. In our school, this cultural diversity is embraced through various events, performances, and classroom discussions, where students and staff share and learn about different backgrounds. Celebrating different traditions—from festivals and rituals to music, food, and language—helps us appreciate the students' wealth of knowledge and creativity. Each cultural perspective offers a new way of thinking and problem-solving, making our community more innovative and inclusive. By appreciating and honoring the rich variety of cultures around us, we create an environment where diversity is not just accepted but celebrated, helping us grow together as a united and vibrant institution.

Warm regards,

Mrs. Bidisha Moulik

Cultural Kaleidoscope

A cultural kaleidoscope is a metaphor that describes the diversity of cultures in the world and the idea that culture is always changing. India is a land of diversity. Diversity in our country extends beyond its people to include languages, food habits, religions and festivals, reflecting India's rich history, geography, and culture. Exploring different cultures is like a journey that can help us understand the beauty of diversity. Appreciating and celebrating cultural diversity can lead to understanding, empathy, and new experiences. How does this concept impact students you ask? Let's walk through the rich cultural diversity and its impact on us.

Culture is like a kaleidoscope, with ever-changing patterns. Human life is also an ever changing journey. It begins from birth, to childhood, adulthood and finally old age.

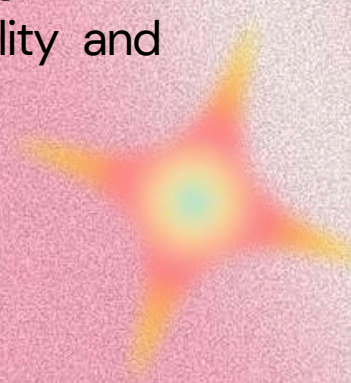

Coverstory

During this journey a person gathers multiple experiences, learns and unlearns habits and skills, masters certain skills which help him earn his livelihood and eventually hobbies and passions which determine his overall life. A person's outlook on life depends on their surroundings and the people who play a significant role in their life—family, friends, colleagues, and acquaintances. With the world becoming a small place with the advancement of technology and communication, the impact every human and their culture makes on someone else is significant. Here is where our life as students is impacted largely by our friends and their culture and it has a major part in our personality as adults.

Diversity is not just a concept but a living reality that enhances lives in multifaceted ways. Schools these days have seen a major transformation towards education, for example a kindergarten student has been a part of various festivals and cultural celebrations in school from an early age. No matter what faith the child practices at home, through various school celebrations he has witnessed celebrations of Diwali, Eid and Christmas. Students are being taught the stories behind each of these festivals, thus they understand and enjoy celebrating them with their friends. Hence at an early stage the concept of cultured citizenship is being incorporated in young minds which plants the seed of good civic responsibility and mutual respect for everyone in their future.

Students should henceforth understand how by celebrating, embracing, and cherishing diversity will help broaden the outlook towards not only your own life but also will broaden perspectives, foster empathy, and open doors to new experiences and opportunities for the society. I urge you to take part in cultural events, festivals, and celebrations, engage in cultural exchange, learn about various traditions, and embrace differences as strengths. We are in fact privileged to be a part of the rich cultural heritage of India with its cultural kaleidoscope and when we learn to accept this with a whole heart we will contribute to building a more inclusive and harmonious society where every voice and expression is valued and respected.

The Life & Times of Biryani

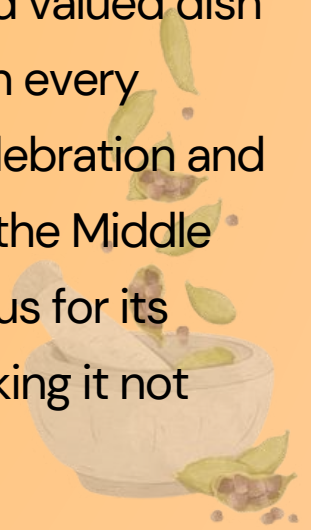

Biryani is a rice-based dish, highly aromatic and flavorful, which originated in the Persian and Indian culinary traditions. It is believed to have originated in Persia and was brought to the Indian subcontinent by the Mughals in the 16th century. The word "biryani" is derived from the Persian words birinj (rice) and biryan (fried or roasted). Regional influences changed biryani into a variety of different culinary traditions in India.

There are many different types of biryani, each with its own distinct flavors and cooking techniques. Hyderabadi Biryani is one of the most popular, consisting of basmati rice, marinated meat, and a mix of aromatic spices. Lucknowi Biryani is prepared by the dum method, where rice and meat are slow-cooked together for a rich and subtle flavor. Kolkata Biryani is somewhat influenced by the Awadhi cuisine but varies because of potatoes and boiled eggs. Malabar Biryani, which is mainly popular in Kerala, uses short-grain rice and has less spice.

Writers' Nook

Ambur Biryani is from Tamil Nadu, and the seeraga samba rice makes it a light spice variety. Other varieties are Sindhi, Dindigul, and Bombay Biryani. Biryani is the most important and valued dish in a cultural and social context. Biryani can be found in every wedding, festival, or family gathering; it symbolizes celebration and coming together. From India to Pakistan, Bangladesh, the Middle East, and around the world, biryani has become famous for its fusion of flavors, textures, and regional influences, making it not just a dish but an emotion for the global food lover.

The Kaleidoscope of Togetherness

Brighter, shiner one more day,
Heard the murmuring down the hallway.
Days and days as we say,
Remembering the memories as we lay.

End of the year we had our annual meet,
Snacks in the hall were nothing less than a treat.

Dressed up a little extra and neat,
Danced like a fool, yet created the heat.

Models, paintings all around,
Hopscotch, snake and ladder on the ground.

To roll the dice we heard the sound;
One leg down, and their hearts pound.

Cultures gather in a warm embrace,
Within the closed walls, to build a strong base.

The syllabus kept its steady pace,
Teaching wrapped it up with immense grace.

So let us honor this wondrous unity,
Learning to define our identity.

For in this kaleidoscope of urbanity,
We found the essence of humanity.

Nature Walks

The experience of nature walks is a key element of life. These walks are a path to peace. So, how do we find that peace? Well, the noise of horns, shouting, city roads that are always busy are surely not the peace. The sounds of rustling leaves, chirping birds, the soothing sound of the bubbling streams, the smell of the beautiful flowers and the misty wind blowing around you is surely where you can find peace and where true tranquility lies and is solace for the soul.

The discoveries are the main focus during the walk. The discoveries that we always miss in the fast and rushing life of ours. The walks are so beautiful and calming yet we always miss out on them. The calm soothing sounds, the squirrels playing, the most colorful butterflies that flutter as the wind sways back and forth. The most fragrant flowers that smell like heavenly scent. There are great ways of keeping kids engaged using nature walks.

The experiences we make, and feel are the memories we save. The chirping of birds, the loud and pure sounds of the cuckoo are way calmer than the songs we listen on our phone. It is an advantage, that we still have nature to see and feel.

Otherwise, if we had no nature,
our life would be incomplete.
Generally, it is said that a one hour walk in a forest leads to reductions in rumination. The enlightenment that you could feel if you go out for once and leave your gadget life behind you could achieve mental peace.

The feelings are important because finding comfort in nature is the key point in your life.
Learning lessons from animals, feeling connected to the environment is the calmest thing you could feel. The things we see and feel of nature are the greatest thing anyone can ever find in the world.

Lost & Found

"Ahhhhhh! Someone please close the window– sunlight is falling right into my eyes. I want to sleep. Uh, mom? Dad? Where are you? What is this place? I better go out, or I might pee my pants." I looked at a doll lying beside me. After noticing it, it felt like someone had inserted a memory card into my brain. I remembered this doll's name—it was Princess Diana, also known as Wonder Woman. I take her wherever I go. That girl is an epitome of perfection. She is my inspiration.

As soon as I stepped out of the room, I entered another room where my parents were sleeping. I jumped on the bed and cuddled my mom. She woke up with her heart in her mouth and shouted at the top of her lungs, "Revaa!!!! Aren't you old enough to understand that three people do not fit on this bed? Did you forget you have your own bed?" My dad immediately calmed my mother and asked me, "Do you want hot chocolate and pancakes for breakfast?"

"No..... I only want grandma's munchy cookies with chocolate milk." They were startled by my reply. "Sweetheart, but grandma has left for her heavenly abode."

"Nonsense! She made me dinner yesterday. I don't want to listen to anything. I want my milk and cookies right now."

"Alright, I'll make it now, but you better put on your uniform. The school bus will be here soon."

"When did I start going by school bus? You only walk me to school, right?"

"I've had enough of your blabberings. Just get ready."

"Okay, I'm going, but please don't shout at me."

I took Diana with me. After I reached my school, I entered my class, and a teacher stopped me.

"Revaa, what are you doing here?"

"This is my classroom, ma'am," I replied innocently.

"Is this a joke, or have you forgotten your classroom?"

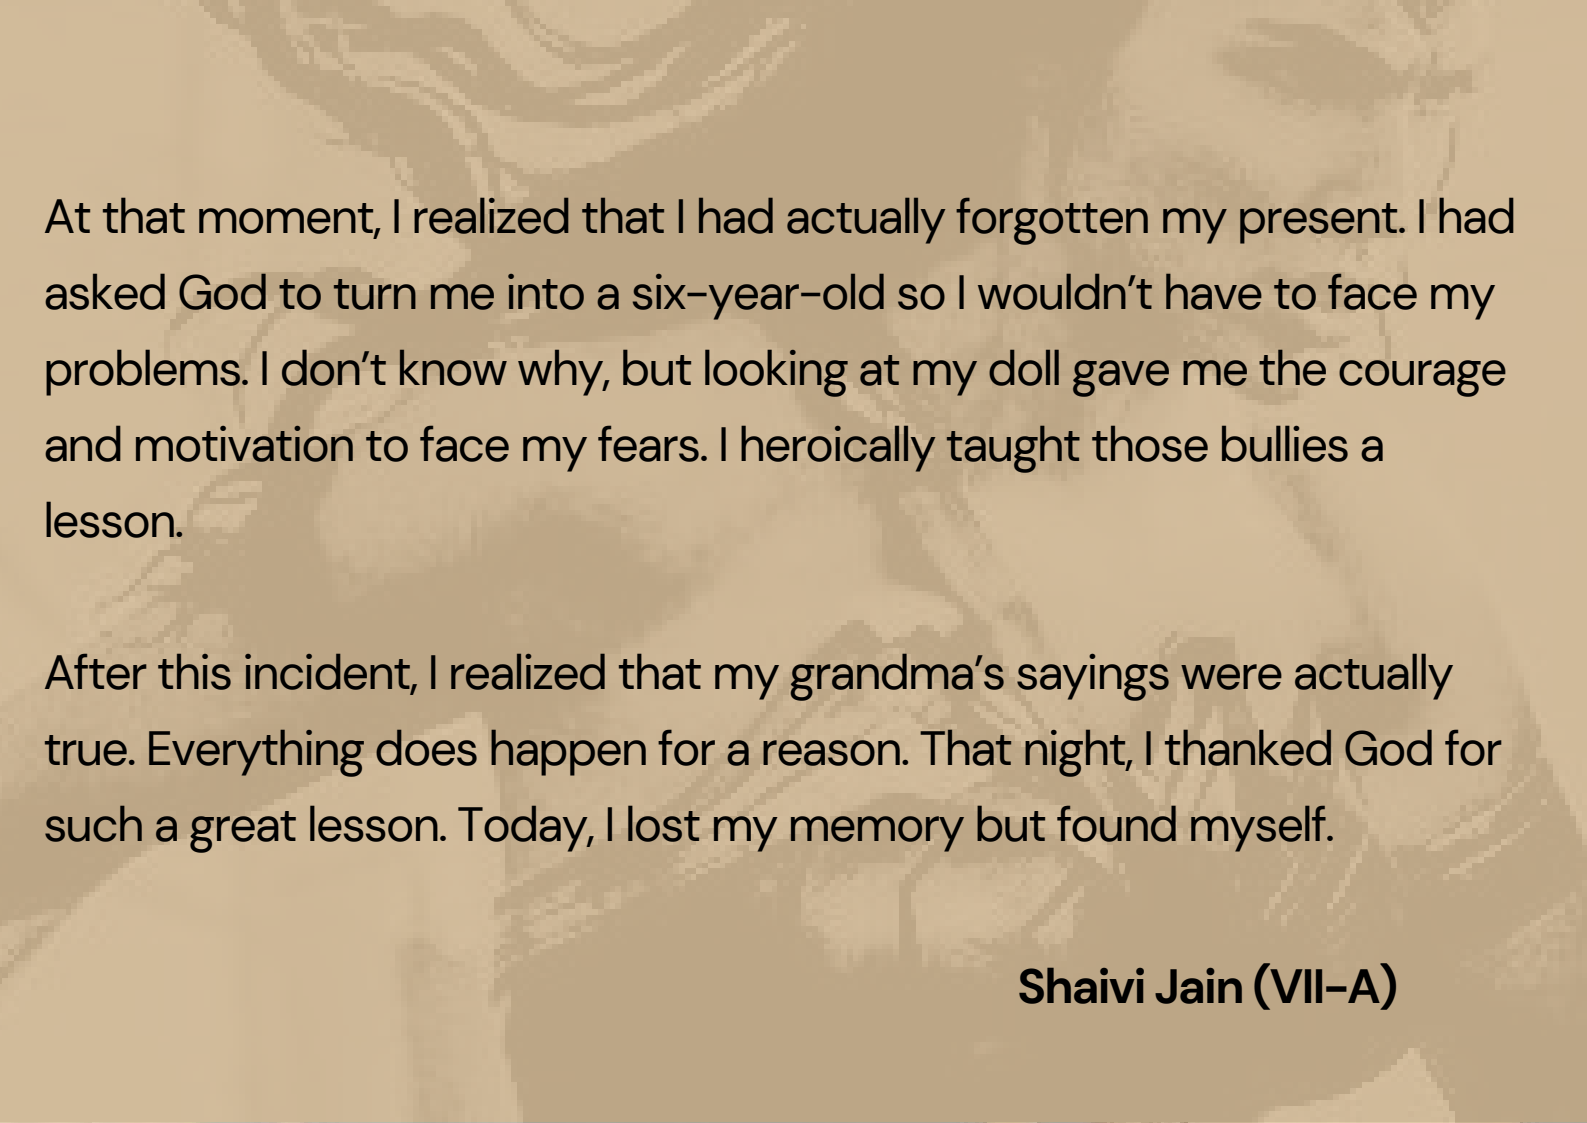

"Ma'am, this school feels like a labyrinth. Will you please take me to my class?"

"Sure, you can sit here."

The class was unfamiliar. I was not comfortable with the people. They were making fun of me because I brought a soft toy with me. In math class, the notes seemed like nothing but gibberish. I was wondering why everyone kept asking me if I had forgotten my present life.

The only things I remember are that I'm six years old, my doll is my only companion, and I am living the best life. I don't even need to know anything else.

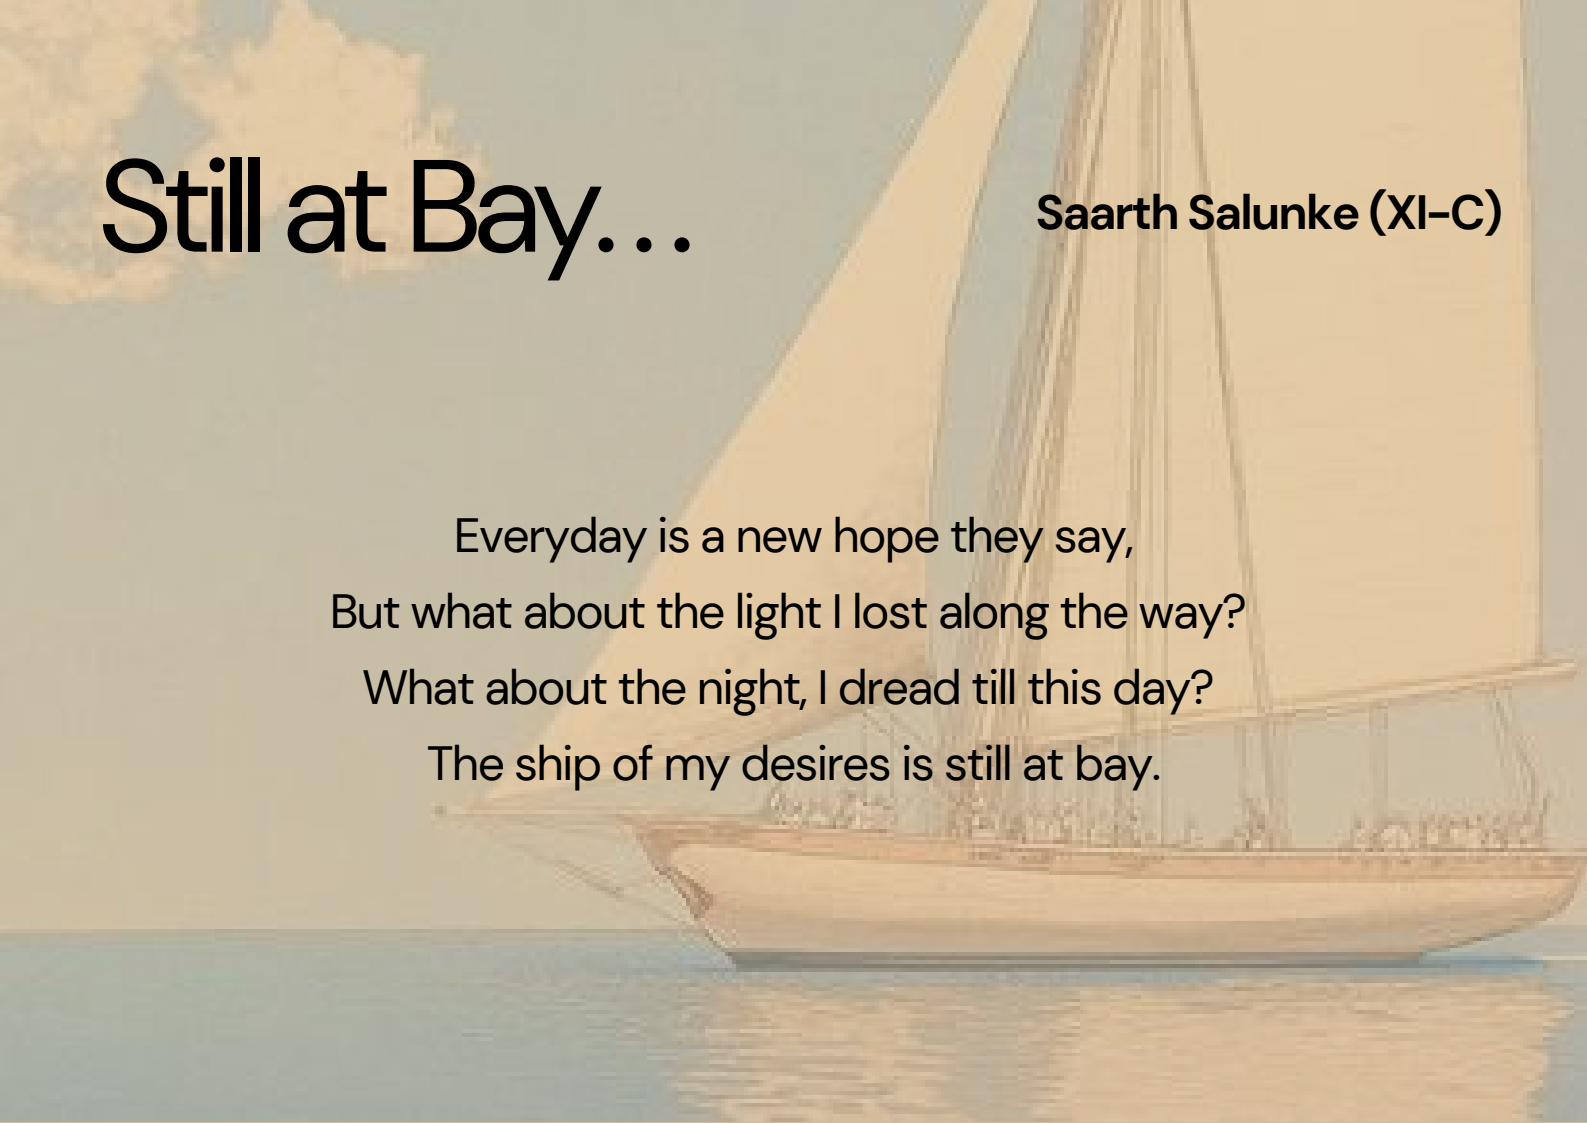

Anyways, after school, some teenagers came to me, pulled Diana away, and started destroying her. For some reason, I shouted, "Oh God, I asked you to turn me into a six-year-old so that I don't have to face these bullies!"

At that moment, I realized that I had actually forgotten my present. I had asked God to turn me into a six-year-old so I wouldn't have to face my problems. I don't know why, but looking at my doll gave me the courage and motivation to face my fears. I heroically taught those bullies a lesson.

After this incident, I realized that my grandma's sayings were actually true. Everything does happen for a reason. That night, I thanked God for such a great lesson. Today, I lost my memory but found myself.

Still at Bay...

Saarth Salunke (XI-C)

Everyday is a new hope they say,
But what about the light I lost along the way?
What about the night, I dread till this day?
The ship of my desires is still at bay.

It's not us anymore,
I'm on a different shore.
A sea, is all I see separating you from me.
Is this story complete?
Will fate make us meet?
Or has it become obsolete?

I hope it will repeat-
maybe in another street.

Needles of Thought

Saarth Salunke (XI-C)

The emerald sea of thoughts, like needles to thy heart, it keeps me in firm fear, that I might lose my dear.

These needles pain me to tear,
it's just winter yet my dear,
can't help but fear,
I might lose my dear.

I wait for the fruit,
the leafless trees bear that fruit could be you my dear.

School ka zamaana

*Yaad aata hai mujhko yeh school ka zamana,
Homework na karne par teacher ka chillana,
Kaisa yeh alas tha anjana,
Ki manzoor ho gaya ek baar ko teacher se pit jana.
Yaad aata hai mujhko yeh school ka zamana jab:*

*Ansu pochne wala rehta mere sath tha,
Yaar mera pyara, bin kate ka gulab tha,
Hum sada sath rahe, yahi chota sa ek khwab tha,
Shayad dono ke raste toh chhodo, manzile hi alag hai,
Jitna nibhaya hai tune mera sath, wo lajawab tha.*

*Samudr lagta hai yeh parwana,
Isi mein chalna sikhaya hai inhone,
Bas inhe mat bhul jana,
Sabke dil ke kareeb hota hai yeh pyara sa afsana,
Woh alhadpan mein has has ke mar jana.*

*Aaj ka hi shubh din hai yaro,
Sare man mutaw bhul jana,
Bas ek baar us yaar se gale yu lag jana,
Ki sada yaad rahe yeh zamana.*

Yaad aata hai mujhko yeh school ka zamana, Jab:
Dost ki choti si baat pe hi chhid jana,
Bade bade exam mein bhi khush hokar muskurana,
Ajeeb thi yeh dastan, hai yeh humara zamana.
Yaad aata hai mujhko yeh school ka zamana.
Ek guru ka ghamand hota hai chatr,
Ek shikshak ka gurur hota hai chatr,
Isi ko samjhana, isi ko padhana, isi ke peeche pad jana,
Ek guru ka fitoor hota hai chatr.
Humare adhyapak sadak hai,
Khud ek jagah ruk kar auro ki zindagi chalana,
Unhe sahi marg se parichit karana,
Unhe unki manzil tak pahunchana,
Gareebo ke ghar rozgar ka deep jalana.
Hume yaad rakho na rakho,
Tum bas inhe bhul na jana,
Yeh sath the jab shayad khilaf tha sara parwana,
Tum bas inhe bhul na jana.
Yaad aata hai mujhko yeh school ka zamana.
